baseball players to let the visiting delegation from Milwaukee harbor the idea for half an inning-and this the one nearest to the supper period-that they were going to break their streak of bad luck. For about five minutes Hughie Duffy and welcome as a letter, with ing money, from home

the score was 2 to 1 against us. Through. Farrell, 2b out the afternoon the two teams had kept pretty well abreast, but in the ninth Milwaukee had a watermelon party and cut two luscious specimens of the aqueous fruit. These two runs pushed them ahead Senatorial aggregation, who were still in the running, but were showing signs of grogginess. Farrell opened the local portion of the conclusion, and his reward was a single. His hit went to Hogriever, who handled it much as he would a greased pig at a Fourth of July picnic and by the time he had discovered the final resting place of the sphere, Parrell was as far advanced as second, and Sammy Dungan was winding himself up preparatory to making a record for his cigar store proprietor. Mr. Dungan had not been doing his wonted smooth work several occasions he gave the spectators the impression that he was doing his level best to get in condition to understudy the Indian in front of the cheroot shop after the end of the season. But Samuel, in this particular instance was cute enough to withstand the oft-repeated efforts of Pitcher Husting to make him swing his little stick at the clusive balls which started for the plate all right, but were sidetracked somewhere en route and finally landed in Maloney's mit a good foot or so to the side of the The present of the base to Dungan was the signal to the spectators to don their cheering habiliments and to get out and root for the locals. And to their credit, everyone of the 2,000 persons present started in to yell for a Washington when Grady was put out at first on a throw from Shortstop Conroy, Farrell trotted across the rubber, and Dungan continued on as far as third. Foster was not expected to do better than to crack out a one-base hit at the best, which would send in Dungan and tie the score. But Foster, in and outer as he is, fooled everybody this time, for his hit started off in the direction of right field. Hallman was after it in a trice-or perhaps it was sooner. Anyway, he imagurated a chase that threatened to end in disaster to the local hopes, but suddenly the ball changed its mind and turned around and nroy, the Milwaukee shortstop, starts in pur-suit of Farrell's hit in the ninth inning. If he had been fortunate enough to stop it, the score might have looked different.

shied off in the direction of the right field

shied off in the direction of the right field fence. There were several vehicles standing in the vicinity and a score or more of the American youth were on hand to assist in blocking the ball, if such a move was deemed advisable. But it was not, as the ball lost itself and by the time it was found Durgan had come home and Foster was puffing around the bags and was half way between third and home. The throw in was not quick enough by a couple of seconds and when Maloney stopped it Foster had just said goodbye to the plate and was in the midst of an admiring throng, who patted him on the back.

It was a sensetional finish to a game that had been devoid of any especial features, barring the magnificent field-work of Clingman at short. This young man seemed to be all over the diamond when there was a hit down in his precinct and in each instance he handled the ball cleanly. He executed two fast double plays, with the assistance of Farrell, and there would have been another double-up to the credit of the local men if it had not been for the extreme nervousness of Farrell to make the play, which resulted in his dropping the ball. Lee pitched well, barring the last inning, when the Milwankee men got four hits, three of which were bunts that should have been fielded if the Senators had been a trifle wider awake.

There was a little obstreperousness were bunts that should have been fielded if the Senators had been a trifle wider awake.

There was a little obstreperousness displayed by Milwaukee during the latter part of the game and for a few moments it was a tess up whether several of the visitors would not be removed from the game, but Mr. Haskell was a patient official and charitably forbore excluding them from further participation in the contest. When Haskell made his first appearance on the grounds both the stands and the bleachers applauded him and showed that his work of the day before was upheld by the respectable element of the National Capital's baseball public. His work yesterday was satisfactory and what kicking was done was the result of disappointment on the part of the visitors at not secring oftener and earlier rather than to any errors on the part of the umpire.

Washington's first run was scored in Sheristop Clingman's favorite position when watching for an opportunity to distinguish himself. And Mr. Clingman is doing this every day, now. He is easily the best fielder on the local team, and if he could hit as well as be fields he would be too good for us.

In his hard working young associates who are hugging the tailend of the pennant procession with a grim determination to hang on for another month and thereby achieve the distinction of winning the booby prize believed that here, in the Nation's Capital, they were due to finally win, after ten defeats handed out to them in succession on their present Eastern trip. The two thousand spectators, too, would not have been in the least surprised if the Brewers landed the game, and so the rapid-fire finish was as unexaged.

At not seering oftener and can the umpire.

Washington's first run was scored in the fifth inning, when Farrell got around the circuit on a single, a steal to second, and Dungan's hit for a bag. Milwaukee was unable to get a man over the plate twiti the seventh, when Bruyette was fortunate enough to secure a bingle. When he trief for second on Haliman's hit the ball was there all right, but Farrell dropped it. Bruyette tailised on Friel's hit for one base. Bruyette opened the last inning with a cracking fine hit over second and three more singles, hits of the punk kind that should have been fielded, enabled Bruyette and Haliman to score. With a score of three to one in their favor when the Senators went in for their favor when the Senators went in for their favor when the Senators went in for their half of the last inning, the Milwaukee was unable to get a man over the plate to get a had been fined $100 and Katoli $5 for the Washington trouble yesterday.

"This is all wrong," said Griffith. "Haskell tried to hit Shugart first, and swung at him good and hard. Things are going badly, the umpiring is such that the men have lost all confidence; they don't know what to expect, and as a consequence they are demoralized. There are men on the present staff clearly unfit for the place, and as long as they are kept in office there is sure to be trouble."

The B. & O. Stars defeated the Geiger House team Wednesday by a score of 4 to I. The feature of the game was the time-iy batting of the Stars. The Stars also claim a forfeited game from the American Engles on the ground that the Eagles failed to show up at the time appointed, and the umpire gave the game to the Stars. The Stars manager has received a great many challenges with teams wishing to arrange games for the championship title. The Stars have a number of games to play at carly dates, and therefore cannot give games to every club with championship aspirations. There are a number of teams who challenge the Stars and claim that if they do not give them a game at once they will claim the championship. The Stars base the claim on their record, which is fifteen games won, one game lost, which gives them a percentage of 555. failed to show up at the time appointed,

The Sammy Dungans would like to hear from all clubs averaging sixteen years. Third-baseman William Huhn has been released by the management. Address all challenges to Ed Clarke, & Myrtle Street northeast.

Brightwood Judges Quick to Note

The last day of the three days' meet at

The judges, J. P. Clark, C. E. Hartung, sider intricate problems, and their decisions met with popular approval. In the 2:35 trot, while Frances Medium was evidently unable to beat the favorite, Baby, it appeared to the public and to the stand that the former was not driven out to compete for first prize. The de-termination of the judges to substitute

The judges, on suspicion that Eagle Boy had not been driven out in the first heat of the 2:30 trot, declared all bets off, which proved to be another popular decision. B. F. McCaulley acted as starter. In the 2:30 trot Barry unexpectedly captured three out of the four heats, winning first prize. Tib Gentry won the first heat, but failed to show up well thereaf-ter, earning only one second place, in the third heat. In the third heat of this race ter, earning only one second place, in the third heat. In the third heat of this race are Eagle Boy, winner of third money, went the distance with check down and a sulky with only one tire after an eighth of a mile had been trotted. Notwithstanding these handicaps, Eagle Boy was driven the distance and succeeded in coming home well within the distance flag.

The 2:25 trot was distinguished by good starts. Baby outclassed his field and was never approached in any of the three heats which decided the race. In the third heat Frances Medium, with Sondheimer driving, falled to make as good a showing as before her own driver, although the time was somewhat improved by the efforts of Happy Russell, it, who pushed the winner for a half mile.

The nervous antics of Lady Hasbeen in the running race, made the start in both heats long delayed. The mare bucked her jockey continuously, and in the second heat Brophy, who was then in the saddle, was tossed over her head, but without injury, and was back in his seat in an instant. The jockeys on both Lady Hasbeen and Miss Loving Heart seemed determined to secure the advantage of a running start, and it was with difficulty that the starter, Mr. Hoge, succeeded in setting them off in shape.

The summaries follow:

First heat—Barby (Johnson), Frances Meyesterday to witness the contest detwent the Postoffice team and the nine from the Census Office predicted that the doughty tabulators would meet their Waterloo and be given a good hard drubbing. After witnessing nine innings of gilt-edge ball-tossing and watching the mailmen chase the horsehide all over the verdant field. they found that they were off in their prognostications. The First Street men won out in the sixth inning, when it looked as though they had been beaten. In that inning they were presented with four runs by one Mr. Bradiey, the crack short-stop for the postmasters. Up to this time the postmen were leading their opponents
